The DEA has issued multiple public safety alerts regarding counterfeit alprazolam, including fake Farmapram products. Laboratory testing of seized counterfeit alprazolam has revealed:

Fentanyl contamination – a synthetic opioid 50–100 times more potent than morphine

Bromazolam – a designer benzodiazepine with unpredictable potency

Flualprazolam – a fluorinated alprazolam analog with extended duration

No active ingredient – complete absence of alprazolam in some fake tablets

Inconsistent dosing – variation in alprazolam content from tablet to tablet

Fentanyl Risk Statistics

According to DEA data, about 7 out of every 10 counterfeit prescription pills tested contain a potentially lethal dose of fentanyl. This statistic highlights the lethal gamble of purchasing controlled substances from unverified sources.
